

Highgrove House Website T&Cs

Highgrove House does not capture and store any personal information about individuals who access this website, except where you voluntarily choose to give us your personal details via email or do so by enquiring about our services.

The personal information you give us is used exclusively by Highgrove House to provide you with current and future information about our products and services and any other services described on this website.

We do not pass any of your personal data to outside organisations and/or individuals, except with your express consent. You can email manager@highgrove-house.net to be removed from any mailing list.

Highgrove House uses cookies so that we can remember your choices when you next visit the site from the same browser. Although all pages on the Highgrove House website work without cookies, you will lose some features and functionality if you choose to disable cookies. For example you won't be able to see a list of the Home pages you have recently visited.

If you do not wish to accept cookies, you can change your browser settings so it notifies you when cookies are sent to it, or you can refuse all cookies.

You can also delete existing cookies. You can visit www.aboutcookies.org to find out more about setting these options for a wide range of browsers. Please note that if you delete our cookies you may not be able to access certain features of our website.

You have a right to know about the personal information Highgrove House hold about you.

You also have the right to have your data corrected or deleted.

Please address all your requests and/or queries about our data-protection policy to
